

Who can bowl in a league?

How does league bowling work?

A bowling league is a group of people just like you getting together on a regular schedule to bowl on a competitive basis. League bowling is for people of all ages, all walks of life and all levels of athletic ability.

Bowling leagues are organized with various numbers of teams consisting of all men, all women, or a combination of men and women. Leagues meet on a regularly scheduled basis, normally once each week, to compete against other teams. Some leagues compete for prize money, some for trophies, but all for the FUN OF BOWLING.

There is no required level of athletic ability to join a league because most leagues use a handicap system. The handicap system is designed to equalize the competitiveness of teams regardless of their bowling ability. Handicaps are determined in the following manner: A bowler bowls three games, adding the scores together and then divides that total by three to determine the average per game. As more games are bowled the average is adjusted weekly as cumulative totals for all the games bowled in a season. This average is then subtracted from a base score (usually 200) and then multiplied by the percentage of handicap the league is using, usually 90%. The handicap is then added to the actual scores bowled. As the average goes up, the handicap goes down and if the average drops the handicap increases.

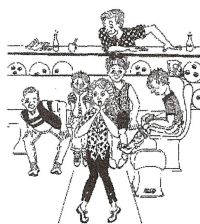

With handicap league bowling becomes a more equal form of competition. A less talented or inexperienced bowler can compete with more experience and skill and still have a chance to win.

League bowling is an INEXPENSIVE NIGHT OUT. Giving you a chance to make new friends, compete on an equal basis and to be assured you will have lanes to bowl on each week at a time that is suitable to your personal schedule.

To put it simple, in relationship to any other competitive event, LEAGUE BOWLING IS THE BEST BUY IN TOWN.
